Ways to Save on SUMMER TRAVEL

Got plans to pack up and head out this summer? Consider these money-saving tips and tricks before booking your getaway.

- Travel in the middle of the week. Tuesdays and Wednesdays are typically the cheapest days of the week to fly, so consider leaving mid-week to score a vacation discount.
- Book flights early. Prices continue to rise as flights fill up, so booking flights as early as possible will typically get you the best fare.
- Get refunds for price drops. When you book airfare, lodging or car rentals through certain websites, such as Tingo.com, Yapta.com and AutoSlash.com, they will automatically alert you or even refund you the difference if the price on your booking drops.
- Get cash back for booking online. There are several websites, including Ebates.com, which lets consumers earn back a percentage of the money they spend on qualifying purchases with the site's retail partners.
- Avoid the cost of rental insurance. Talk to your auto insurance company to see if it covers rental cars under your policy. Or better yet, contact your credit card company to see if they offer coverage when you pay for the rental using your credit card.
- Get a room with a kitchenette. Save money on meals by making inexpensive meals in your room rather than dining out every day.
- Sign up for daily deals. Daily deals sites, such as Groupon and LivingSocial, will send alerts for discounts on attractions, outings and restaurants in the area you'll be visiting.
